Robert Urich Stars in "Spenser for Hire"

By Robert Andelman

"It costs just as much time and money to produce our show as it does to produce 'The A-Team,'" says Robert Urich, star of this season's new ABC crime drama "Spenser: For Hire," now airing on Tuesdays. "We all work late on Friday nights, we all look at the ratings the next day and we all battle over scripts.

"The difference between the good and the bad is the concept and the execution," continues Urich. "I'd rather spend my time finding something I believed in and cared about. That's why I'm real proud of 'Spenser.'"

Dan Tanna, the private eye Urich played on "Vegas" for three years, was never considered to be anything other than a quick, glib, two-fisted private eye. "I don't think there was any notion about adding character to the character," says Urich.

But working with characters based on the popular detective novels by Robert Parker, the "Spenser" cast has richly defined attitudes, histories and perspectives. Urich and his co-stars, Barbara Stock and Avery Brooks, have to look no further than the books to know what Spenser, his girlfriend Susan or friendly enemy Hawk might think, say or do in a given situation.

"Spenser: For Hire" jumped into its first season with sensitive, unusual looks at such topical issues as child abuse and abortion. And even the more typical stories about recovering stolen goods and kidnapping had an inordinate amount of style and grace.

Taking a deep breath, Urich discusses his feelings about the episode that featured Spenser's girlfriend's abortion.

"I was reluctant to do the show," he says. "But we were in a time slot against 'Miami Vice' at the time and we decided to do shows where people would have to say, 'Hey, look what they're doing. Gotta pay attention to what they're doing on the other channel.'".

"I just thought it was a little early to run an abortion episode, before the audience really understood and got to know the characters."

"I told (the producers) there were a lot of ways to do a story about abortion, about teenagers that my girlfriend might have been counseling or about somebody who decided to give a child up for adoption. Something real positive. This turned out to be pro-life and pro-choice.

"It was difficult," says Urich, the father of two. "Every line was negotiated with the network. It was very, very tough. Finally, I did add some things that I felt I had to say."

Urich says the original script for the episode was a "middle-of-the-road, milquetoast discussion of abortion. I said nonsense. What we're talking about is my kid. A life. Spenser's gonna be passionate about it."

And what about Spenser's continuing relationship with Susan?

"In the books they don't get married," Urich says. "I don't think you'll ever see Susan and Spenser married. I don't really know where it's going."

TCI Package

TCI, the nation's largest operator of cable systems, will soon be offering a package for $12 a month for 15 channels, plus $6 a month access fee. TVRO owners who don't own a descrambler can rent one from TCI for $6 a month. The service will not include superstations due to copyright laws. Information can be obtained by calling a local cable operator.

C-Span Eyes Politics

This year's elections can be followed on C-Span's weekly series called "Campaign '86." The one-hour program is seen every Friday at 10:30 p.m. (ET) with a repeat on Sunday at 5:00 p.m. (ET). The series includes candidate speeches, political rallies, indepth interviews with political experts and a look at campaign advertisements of the 1986 Senate and Gubernatorial races around the country. This week features "A Look at Political Advertising."

A loveable talking horse upstages Wilber Post on the familiar favorite "Mr. Ed." Premiering on Nickelodeon Monday, Mar. 3, 8:00 p.m. (ET), the comedy series begins when Wilber and Carol Post find a horse in their barn that they can't part with. When Wilber finds Mr. Ed can talk, the fun begins.

WOR Scrambles

WOR (G1/15) will sramble its signal 24 hours a day beginning Monday, March 3. WOR began its intermittent scrambling in February and recently announced total scrambling. Because of copyright laws, TVRO owners will not be able to receive the channel although it can be unscrambled using the M/A-Com descrambler. The signal, according to a station spokesman, will be made available to cable affiliates only.

Falwell Buys

The Rev. Jerry Falwell has purchased the National Christian Network and plans to increase it to 24-hours by next year. The new network, known as Liberty Broadcasting, will have emphasis on weekly church services, a 90-minute daily call-in show, college courses and daily chapel.

24-Hour Service

If all goes well with a scheduled audio channel, Warp-1 Productions, Inc. will launch a round-the-clock movie channel, possibly by next year. Trying not to move too quickly, the company will begin with five hours of audio programming on Spacenet 1/21 (6.2 MHz) in the form of a daily talk show from 7 p.m. to midnight.

SPACE/STTI Nears

This year's SPACE/STTI trade show will be the largest in the show's history. Boasting of 900 booths, the show wil be February 19-21 in the Las Vegas Convention Center. SPACE has planned a seminar on programming and distribution and KU-Band will be highlighted in a series of workshops in addition to the full range of other activities. The trade show is an annual event where TVRO dealers, distributors and manufacturers can meet on common ground to share ideas and plans for the future.

Scrambling Feed

M/A Com, manufacturer of the VideoCipher 2 descrambler, will attempt to unscramble scrambling by launching an informational feed on Westar 5 dealing with the issue. The show will feature promotional material in addition to answering questions about programming available, decoders and scrambling. The exact date of the program is as yet unannounced.

TIPS FOR SATELLITE TV OWNERS

by Ed LaFond

I have received a few questions from different dish owners concerning problems they are having with their systems.

Troubleshooting a system on location can be mind-boggling at times to say the least. Troubleshooting a system without seeing the picture it is producing can be nearly impossible because of the many different possibilities of the source of the problem.

If you would like a few suggestions on what might be the problem, complete the list below and if additional space is needed simply use another sheet of paper and mail it to me at the address at the end of the column.

The list to complete:

(1) Manufacturer's name and model of receiver _____

(2) Does your system use a:
a. downconverter
b. blockconverter
c. lna (low noise amplifier)
d. lnb (low noise blockconverter)
e. Polaramp

(3) Name & size of dish_____

(4) What type of mount for feedhorn (button hook, tripod, etc. _____

(5) Make and model number of TV set_____

(6) Where is the satellite receiver located at (on top of TV, on a shelf, stacked on another receiver, etc.) _____

(7) Does the problem get better or worse at any particular time of day or during any particular type of weather _____

(8) Describe in detail the problem you are having.

Send the list with a self addressed stamped envelope to:

TIPS FOR SATELLITE TV OWNERS

QUESTION:

DISH: 10' Prodelin
RECEIVERS: (2) Janeill BCR 250
(1) Janeill BCR 100
with BLOCKCONVERTERS
LNA: 80 degree California Amp
FEEDHORN MOUNT: buttonhook

I have lots of sparkle and grain (in the picture). Heavy color, especially red and white will completely overload video, drowning out the audio. On poorer satellites, audio is also a problem.

My dealer told me he thought it was the receiver. Since that time I have had 6 BCR 250's (exchanged on the system).

Another dealer told me that my 8' spun dish was too weak. I then bought the 10' Prodelin dish. Still a poor picture.

A TVRO tech then told me my 120 degree LNA was too weak. I bought a 80 degree LNA and changed my cable from RG 59 to RG 6 sweep-tested cable. Still a poor picture.

I've had my signal tested and nowhere does it drop below 48 db...

Try replacing the blockconverter.

The blockconverter on the Janeill systems needs to be weatherized completely. This means the connections and the body of the blockconverter. I suggest also putting it inside a plastic container like those sold in grocery stores. Don't seal the holes made for the wire entrances. Put them through the bottom of the box (so air can carry away any condensation). This also will serve as a drain hole.

Check the connections to the blockconverter for any signs of rust and corrosion. This will indicate moisture and that the weatherproofing isn't adequate. If there are any signs of moisture in the ends, cut them off and put on new ends.

Check the 90 degree adapter between the Polarotor and the LNA making sure that it isn't warped or that moisture is not getting inside it. It must make good metal contact with the Polarotor and the LNA. Try taking it off and putting the LNA directly on the Polarotor.

Soap Gets New Life

A devastating flood has set the stage for a new slant to "Search for Tomorrow." The NBC-TV's daytime drama (M-F 12:30-1 p.m. ET) will have a new sight, sound and structure following the flood that swept the fictional town of Henderson away in a recent episode. The characters will begin life again, going in different directions than the soap's original path in hopes of giving the story new adventure and vitality, according to Executive Producer John Whitesell II.

"The Music of Man"

Music lovers will be treated to an eight-part series of television's first in-depth tour through the history of music. "The Music of Man" is narrated by world famous violinist and humanitarian Yehudi Menuhin, and begins with man's first songs — chants, folk ballads and primitive rhythms based on the sounds of nature. Each week progresses through the musical time-line, and shows how inventions such as the phonograph and radio had tremendous influences on the changing world of music. Performers range from Judy Collins to Indian composer Ravi Shankar to the Beatles. Five years in the making, filmed in England, France, Trinidad, Jamaica and nine other countries, this series matches visual splendor to the magic of music. The premiere is Mar. 6 at 8 p.m. (ET) and will be shown for the next seven Thursday evenings on Satcom F3/24.

Package pricing is very competitive with cable rates and will again allow the TVRO system owner access to his favorite programming. SAI currently is in the negotiation stages with the premium channel programmers, and will offer the service shortly.

Walwyn indicated that his firm is not affiliated with any cable company or premium programmer, and that SAI will offer this service to the nationwide TVRO market.

The entry of SAI into the market will bring premium channel access to TVRO owners across the nation and will open the market to competitive pricing as would be required by several bills before Congress.

The service will use the MA/COM Video Ciper II technology. Each customer's decoder will have a unique "address" to allow the unit to be authorized.

Walwyn said that SAI will not enter the TVRO system sales market, because there are many qualified dealers in this market area now.
